

Types of fishing

Bottom Fishing

When you go bottom fishing the boat is anchored in different places where the water is 10 ft to 450 ft deep and the sea bed is rocky or mixed. You will be using a specially designed rod and reel with the bait prepared in advance. This type of fishing targets the demersal fish species, fish that prefer to live along the sea bed. You'll be hoping to catch Blacktail Comber, Common Seabream, Guelly jack, Forkbeard, Offshore Rockfish, Axillary Seabream, White Seabream, Chub Mackerel, Dusky Grouper and Largescaled Scorpionfish.

Jigging

Although this can be included in bottom fishing, this type of fishing doesn't need us to anchor the boat. It is done again where the sea is 100ft to 300ft deep and the bed is rocky or mixed. Jigging uses an artificial bait weighing between 50 g and 300 g, depending on the weather conditions and how deep we want to fish. The advantage of jigging is that it is possible to catch both pelagic and demersal species, meaning all the fish that you find from the sea bed right to the surface, without needing to change the technique. You'll be targeting Bluefish, Common Seabream, Yellowmouth Barracuda, Atlantic Bonito, Greater Amberjack, Largescaled Scorpionfish, Guelly Jack, Blacktail Comber and Dusky grouper.

Trawling

To trawl we set the boat in very slow motion and use an artificial bait in coastal areas where the sea is 30 ft to 170 ft deep. You'll be fishing for Bluefish, Yellowmouth Barracuda, Atlantic Bonito, Skipjack Tuna and Chub Mackerel.

Live Bait Fishing

For live bait fishing the boat is anchored at different depths so we can fish using rod and reel. This type of fishing targets pelagic fishes and to improve our chances we only go live bait fishing at the end of the day when the fish come out to feed. you'll be hoping for Yellowmouth Barracuda, Bluefish, Atlantic Bonito, Greater Amberjack and Guelly Jack

Live Bait Fishing

For live bait fishing the boat is anchored at different depths so we can fish using rod and reel. This type of fishing targets pelagic fishes and to improve our chances we only go live bait fishing at the end of the day when the fish come out to feed. you'll be hoping for Yellowmouth Barracuda, Bluefish, Atlantic Bonito, Greater Amberjack and Guelly Jack

Night Fishing

The same has Bottom Fishing during the day, but we will fish mostly less deep than the day fishing, targeting specific species, like Mediterranean moray, Conger, Greater fork-beard, Dusky Grouper and Largescaled Scorpionfish.

All the details of the service are at the discretion of the skipper and depend on maritime conditions on the day of the activity, consult general conditions.

For more information see our prices by activity.

For more complete programs snorkelling see our prices by packs.

This program is developed by the Maritime Tourist Operator named Wild Ocean, on the vessel Atlantic Rose, under the Maritime Tourist Operator license 1/2017.